

Peace Session Opens Nov. 20 At Lausanne

Alied Officials Confer With Object of Presenting Unified Front to Turks; Britain Urges Co-operation

Draft Reply to Russia

England Will Object to Her Participation Except in Discussion of Dardanelles

LONDON, Nov. 11 (By The Associated Press).—It now appears certain from information in official circles that the Lausanne peace conference will open on November 20. Conversations are actively progressing between the Allied capitals with the object of presenting a completely unified front to the Turkish claims at the conference. The supreme need for such unity continues to be emphasized by British officials as the only means of solving the Near East problem. It is stated that unless unforeseen developments occur it is not likely that Foreign Secretary Curzon will go to Paris for a preliminary discussion with the French Premier.

Draft Russian Reply
The British government is preparing a reply to the latest note from Russia, in which the demand was made for Russian representation in the entire Lausanne conference, instead of merely as part of it dealing with the Straits of the Dardanelles. It is understood that Britain will reiterate the contention that the first part of the conference concerns only those powers which have actually been at war with the Turks.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Nov. 11 (By The Associated Press).—Lausanne, though expecting soon to entertain the Near East peace conference, finds itself somewhat in the position of a guest who has had a dinner party fixed upon her but does not know when the party will be held nor how many guests are coming. Only a few of the delegates to the conference have so far made known their plans. Hamid Bey, Turkish Nationalist representative at Constantinople, has telegraphed from that city that the Nationalist delegation of eighteen members will arrive here Sunday night. The French delegation, headed by Camille Barrère, will arrive Monday.

Mayor Freymond, of Lausanne, and his committee on arrangements know nothing of the plans of the British and Italian delegations. The conference will probably hold its sessions in the Hotel de la Paix, which is a large commercial hostelry in the heart of the city, as the residents of Lausanne have rented this hotel and offered it to the conference.

Bleachers Crash, Seven Hurt
NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 11.—Tragedy was narrowly averted at the Missouri-Oklahoma football game on Boyd Field today when bleachers erected for standing room collapsed, dropping about one thousand spectators several feet to the ground. Only seven suffered slight injuries.

Wirth Tries to Avert Crisis as Parley Nears

German Chancellor Makes
Desperate Effort to Save Ministry on Eve of the Brussels Conference

May Reconstruct Cabinet

Ebert Sees Way to Placate
Socialists, People's Party;
Food Riots Are Reported

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—Chancellor Wirth

is making a desperate effort to save his Cabinet and at the same time placate the People's party and the Socialists in order to avoid a governmental crisis, which at this time, on the eve of the convocation of the Brussels Conference and probably decisive action on the part of international financiers looking to the stabilization of the mark, would certainly complicate the general situation and possibly do serious damage.

As at all times of crisis, President Ebert is working behind the scenes, and to-day he is the most influential force in seeking to bring about an understanding which, though it would not reconcile the Socialists and the People's party, would secure the support of both for a reconstructed Cabinet, of which Chancellor Wirth would remain the head. President Ebert has instructed the Chancellor to proceed with the reconstruction of the Cabinet by filling the vacancy at the Foreign Office, reorganizing the Ministry of Reconstruction and naming one or two ministers without portfolio, but which the Socialists are determined to retain, threatening to withdraw from the Cabinet if it is withheld from them.

By this reconstruction of the Cabinet, which he hopes to have completed before the convocation of the Reichstag on Tuesday, Chancellor Wirth hopes to retain the support of the Socialists and gain benevolent neutrality from the People's party. The Socialists, who are not averse to this plan, nevertheless make their final agreement to its contingent upon the nature of the program of the new Foreign Minister and other appointees from the ranks of the People's party. They will work with no ministers who support the Stinnes demand for abolition of the eight-hour new men to be "experts" who, while not representing their parties officially, would at the same time represent the views of those parties and thus command support for the government in the Reichstag.

Reichstag Meets Tuesday
Director Carl Cuno, of the Hamburg-American Line, who enjoys the confidence both of the People's party and the Socialists, is prominently mentioned for the post at the Foreign Office, and Deputy Von Raumer, a prominent People's party member, may head the special economic division which is to be created in conjunction with the Foreign Office. The Socialist leader, Hilferding, is mentioned for the portfolio of Minister of Reconstruction a post which the People's party covets day, they say.

Following Chancellor Wirth's conferences with leaders of the respective parties, hope was expressed to-day that the Chancellor will succeed in carrying out Ebert's plan, and that the reconstructed Cabinet will present itself in the Reichstag next week and obtain a vote of confidence. The Chancellor, however, may have to go through the formality of resigning and then being intrusted by President Ebert with the task of forming a new Cabinet—in which case he will present a slate along the lines just indicated.

Food Riots Reported
Serious food riots are reported to-day from both the occupied and unoccupied parts of the Rhineland. In many towns, notably Dillenburg and Hamburg, miners, iron workers and others smashed their way into food and clothing shops and made away with millions of marks' worth of goods. The police were unable to stem the rioting, but succeeded in some cases in recovering the seized goods. At Kair, near Cologne, the rioters numbered many thousands, and were dispersed only after energetic intervention by mounted police.

Government figures published to-day show an increase of 73 per cent in the cost of living for October, as compared with that for September. The national trade unions are to confer with the government next week in regard to new wage increases to cover this rise.

Death of Hattie, Veteran Zoo Elephant, Is Feared

Paralytic Stroke May Cause
Woe Unless Bill Snyder, Former Keeper, Comes Here

A thick cloud of gloom settled over Central Park Zoo yesterday when it became known that Hattie, the elephant that former keeper Bill Snyder named for his daughter thirty-five years ago, is ill and may be dying. The keepers went about their work with a dejected air, and, somehow or other, even the animals seemed to know that the veteran had suffered a paralytic stroke. They were all quieter than they have been before in years.

Hattie was found prostrate in the seventh Street Station, who took Mr. Sawyer to Roosevelt Hospital in a taxicab. Dr. Perkins at the hospital said the patient's condition was not serious.

back wearily, with a feeble grunt. The veterinary has been working on her ever since. Last night he had just about decided that the only hope for her recovery lay in sending to Pine Valley, N. Y., for Bill Snyder.

The elephant has been ailing, off and on, ever since the keeper who first trained her retired, five years ago. She has done her old tricks for him whenever he returned to see her, but after he had gone back to his farm she always relapsed into melancholy gentleness.

Apoplexy Seizes Lawyer On Fifth Avenue Bus

While riding on a Fifth Avenue bus on Fifty-seventh Street, near Columbus Circle, last night, William D. Sawyer, fifty-five years old, a retired lawyer, going his address as the University Club, 1 West Fifty-fourth Street, was stricken with apoplexy.

The conductor summoned Patrolman Michael Monahan, of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, who took Mr. Sawyer to Roosevelt Hospital in a taxicab. Dr. Perkins at the hospital said the patient's condition was not serious.
